Division de Historia de Glen Rock

History of Glen Rock

Historia de Glen Rock

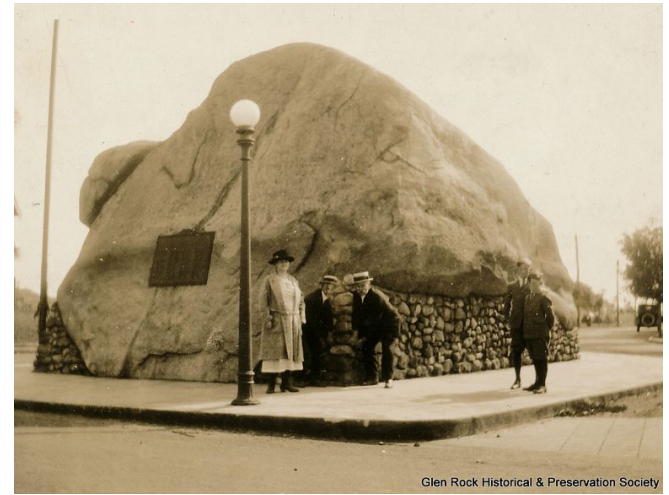

- In 1894, a dispute arose between Glen Rock and Ridgewood over Ridgewood's plan to build a new large school for the township, close the small rural schools, and increase taxes.
- A special election was held in the greenhouse of Andrew V.D. Snyder on the northern corner of Park and Maple Avenues to determine whether Glen Rock should form a separate borough.
- When an affirmative vote was cast, 80 to 2, Glen Rock filed its application for borough status, and the Borough was officially incorporated on September 14, 1894.

History of The Rock

Historia de la Roca

- The earliest historical relic in Glen Rock is The Rock itself.
- Left in Glen Rock approximately 15,000 years ago by the Wisconsin Glacier
- The Rock played a role in the days of the Lenni Lenape tribe to the present. It was a marker for Indian trials, the 1709 Ramapo Tract, and a World War I memorial.
- The greatest danger to The Rock happened around 1912.
 - One of the neighbors, John Walter, had title to The Rock itself, which was on his property, and he was considering an offer from the developer to sell that piece of land. The developer, being a developer, planned to blow up the Rock to make it easier and more direct to continue Doremus Avenue across Rock Road.
 - Luckily for posterity, Glen Rock Councilman J. Oscar Bunce realized that part of The Rock (18" to be exact) jutted out into Rock Road, which was county property. The Rock was saved when Mr. Bunce told the developer that he could destroy The Rock only if he did no damage to that 18"

Glen Rock Historical & Preservation Society

Lenni-Lenape Tribe Background

Antecedentes de la Tribu Lenni-Lenape

- The literal translation of Lenni Lenape is “the real people” and “the original people.”
- Lenni-Lenape Indians are traced back to 15,000 years ago when they migrated across Asia to gradually spread to regions of North and South America.
- It is estimated that they arrived in New Jersey about 12,000 years ago.
- There is evidence of hunting in Glen Rock due to the many arrowheads being found. Once settled, the Lenape tribe was attracted to the rich soils of what is now our current Garden State to grow crops.
- The men would travel to shores close by for clams and oysters, and during the late fall, they would migrate to what is now the Pennsylvania woods to hunt for the winter season.
- Approximately around the 1600s, the Europeans started to arrive, which brought nuances to the Lenape tribe and the land. The Europeans brought in new diseases, which killed many Lenape tribe members.
- It eventually forced the tribe out of the land around the 1700s. Today, most of the Lenape descendants reside in Oklahoma, Wisconsin, and Ontario, Canada.

The Lenape Rock Agenda

La Agenda de Lenape

Here we have an agenda for both of our events of what to expect during them! We hope to have planned an eventful day full of fun and interactive activities.

Lenni-Lenape Event at The Rock
Evento de Lenni-Lenape en la Roca

The Rock Logo

El Logotipo de la Roca

- The Lenape tribe is a monumental part of Glen Rock's history along with The Rock on Rock Road.
- The Lenape settled in Glen Rock and called Glen Rock "home."
- The Lenape called The Rock "pamachapuka" which meant large stone from the sky due to the significant purpose of being used as a trail marker for their travels.

The Lenape Event Ad

El Anuncio del Evento Lenape

- History plays a role in how the Lenape tribe got to Glen Rock and how the Rock came about. (How they used the rock as a trail mark)
- It will have numerous activities, such as:
 - Typical music of the Lenape
 - Variety of food
 - Kids activities related to the Lenape tribe
 - Fun and informative Lenape performances

The logo features the words "TALENT" and "DIVISION" in a large, bold, black, sans-serif font, stacked vertically. Below them, the Spanish translation "División de Talento" is written in a smaller, black, sans-serif font. The entire text is centered within a white, scalloped-edged shape that resembles a seal or a badge. The background is a solid, vibrant yellow, with a dark brown vertical bar on the far left edge.

OFFICE FLOOR PLAN

Plano de la oficina

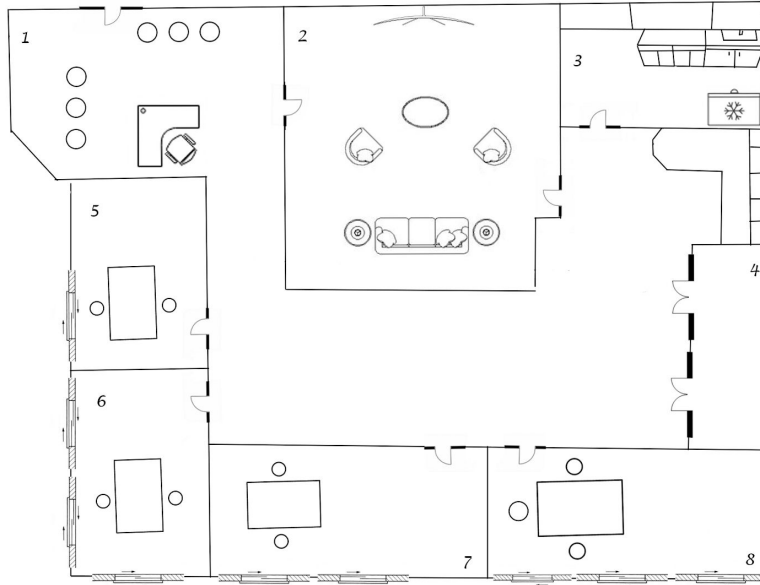

Our Office is Heritage Plaza II, which is off of Harristown Road, with easy access to Route 208. It is 5 minutes from Glen Rock. Our office space is on the first and third floor.

The first floor is 2,000 SF

Total Cost: $12,500 for 3 months

As you can see from the floor plan we plan to add a front desk, where the receptionist would be. A waiting room where our clients can wait before speaking to our Divisional Presidents and Vice Presidents will also be provided.

OFFICE FLOOR PLAN

Plano de la oficina

The first floor has space for 4 offices.

Each Divisional Vice-President and Team Leader will have a shared office.

As well as the President and Vice-President of Operations, and our CEO, who will share an office.

We will have closets storage areas, as well as a kitchen.

OFFICE FLOOR PLAN

Plano de la oficina

The third floor is 2,500 SF and as the floor plan shows we are planning this space with a more open floor approach.

The Total Cost: $15,625 for 3 months

We will have a work area, everyone will get a desk/workstation, and Teams will work together.

The Team Meeting room is a place where Teams can come together to pitch ideas and have team meetings.

This floor also has a kitchen area, along with a small office for private meetings, and an entertainment space for Team Members.
